

We are conducting research on:

Movement Difficulties

in People with Clinical Conditions

Oxford Brookes University, together with Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre and John Radcliffe Hospital, are looking for people with movement difficulties caused by a clinical condition and who are attending routine clinical appointments (i.e., Parkinson's Disease, Multiple Sclerosis, Stroke, Cerebral Palsy or Lower Limb Amputees with Below or Above Knee Prosthesis). We aim to investigate movement difficulties and their progression using objective measurement tools. Assessments last 1-hour and take place after your routine clinic appointment (i.e. every 6 months over a 5 year period). We will measure your walking and your arm and eye movement difficulties. If you would like to volunteer or need further information please contact us:
